

A SAGE OF EGYPT

In a Magnificent Gown He Talks of Philosophy.

HE IS A LINGUIST.

Master of Words, He Lauds the Innocent Diversion They Give.

Hadji Raphael is convalescent in Bellevue hospital. He is a sage of Egypt. He has long, straight hair, black as a crow's plumage. He has large black eyes that reflect the light of splendors seen in the centuries.

His face has a camellia tint, for his mother was a Caucasian. He wears a gown appropriate to his physiognomy. It is a broad, wide, and extremely magnificent. The young physicians of the hospital, in their white duck clothes, listen to him.

In a circle around him, they bend their intelligent heads. They are silent, he is restful. He tells them wise, grand things. He says that the priests of Egypt in her glory knew nature better than we know it now, because they were nearer to nature. He says that they had secrets.

He did not tell them the common people because they thought that ignorance is the condition of happiness on earth. He says that darkness is benevolent. "Do not try to rear the veil of the temple," he says. "There are great and good things. But you must not try to see them."

He is twenty-nine years of age. His parents were of an ancient noble family, impoverished by the wars. It was his duty to restore to his material fortune, to earn a fortune, but he loved only science. He studied the antique manuscripts, he tried to divine the significance of the antique symbols.

Europeans astonished him. They were so confident in themselves, and they knew so little. An Englishman had pictures of Paris's World's Fair in 1889 and showed them to him. The Englishman said:

"Paris is the expression of modern civilization. It has all the art of the present time. There are no ideas are not happier than the camel drivers. Perhaps you might tell them the secret of happiness." Hadji Raphael went to Paris.

He carried on his back a pack of Egyptian art objects that he had gathered. Some were antique, some were modern, all were easily sold. But his philosophy had a similar appreciation. Men and women acquired it as a decoration. They did not make of it their lives. He went to England.

Pupils, but no disciples. He sold more art objects there and conveyed more philosophy. He had pupils, but no disciples. He went to the World's Fair in Chicago and had there the same success. His back, rendered stiff by time, at least since his departure from Cairo, went well. His philosophy had respectful hearers only.

He has here now, on Fourth avenue, rooms that are full of books. He speaks Arabic, Turkish, Greek, Spanish, Italian, French and English. He is a master of words. They are my subjects, and as I am a good musician, I give to them my life.

"Before I abdicate, I hope that I may make many converts to that innocent diversion, I know that it cures man of the rage for wealth, fame and honors. They are vain."

He says these things in accents of sincerity. When he expected to die of his illness, a week ago, he was not less serene.

WOMAN HURT IN A RUNAWAY.
Mrs. Frances De York Thrown from a Carriage in Front of Attorney-General Griggs's House.

While Mrs. Frances De York, of New Bedford, N. J., was driving past Attorney-General Griggs's house, on East Twenty-seventh street, yesterday, a part of the harness broke and the horse became frightened, ran away and dashed down the street at a terrific speed.

Mrs. De York and her sister-in-law, who had been with her, were both thrown from the vehicle and Mrs. De York was rendered unconscious. Her companion was unhurt.

An ambulance removed the injured woman to the General Hospital where she sustained a fracture of the skull.

HUSBAND AND WIFE LAND IN JAIL INSTEAD OF EUROPE.
Charged with Shoplifting, They Are Found Provided with Tickets to Ireland.

"For God's sake don't send us to prison. Remember, Judge, we have three small children," cried James McCaffrey, of No. 211 High street, Brooklyn, yesterday, in the New York Police Court, when he and his wife were charged with shoplifting.

The judge, after hearing the case, found that the McCaffreys were provided with tickets to Ireland, and the man and the woman were released.

POLICE GUARD BRIDGE AGAINST TROLLEY COMPANY.
Borough of Bronx Authorities Fear Olin Avenue Bridge May Be Overloaded.

The Olin avenue bridge, spanning the Bronx River, in Williamsbridge, is guarded by police, with orders not to allow the Union Railway Company to run trolleys across it.

Deputy Commissioner Moore is doubtful whether the bridge is sufficiently strong to stand such heavy trolley traffic.

The company has made no effort to construct the line over the bridge yet, but it is to forestall any such possible move that the police have been stationed at the bridge by night as well as day since Thursday.

ST. STEPHEN'S COLLEGE TO BE MOVED HERE.
Committee Seeking a Site in This City for the Institution Now at Annandale.

Announcement has been made of a proposition, now under advisement, for the removal of St. Stephen's College from its present location in Annandale, Dutchess County, to this city.

The committee having in hand the selection of a site here consists of the Rev. Dr. Joseph Carey, of St. Stephen's Church, New York; St. Nicholas Kane, Theodore Gibbs and Charles F. Hoffman, all of whom are members of the Board of Trustees. St. Stephen's College was chartered in 1860 as a training college for those who design to enter the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Worshipman-Opie.
Miss Lottie Eugenia Opie, of No. 350 East Twelfth street, Brooklyn, was married to Augustus Friend Worthington, of Brooklyn, on Wednesday. The ceremony took place in a new wedding home on East Twelfth street. It was a wedding present from the groom. The bride was attended by two maids of honor, the Misses Sarah Hilary and Helen Baldwin. She was given away by her uncle, John Hilary. The groom was attended by Mr. Howard Harrington, of Poughkeepsie, the best man. The Rev. Dr. S. Gifford Nelson performed the marriage ceremony, after which a wedding supper was served.

MAZET TREADS ON REPUBLICAN GRASS.

His Subpoenas in Queens May Uncover a Big Scandal.

IT LEADS TO ALBANY.

Roosevelt's Secretary Was District-Attorney During the "Vagrant" Job.

The Mazet Committee's action in summoning before them certain officials of Queens has caused no end of conjecture among the taxpayers of that county as to what the committee expects to learn from the witnesses who have been subpoenaed.

If the Mazetters start in on one line of investigation, the voters of Queens wonder what they will do when they find it leading them into the Governor's chamber, which they declare cannot fail to occur if followed up to its obvious end.

What these voters have in mind leads them back to the days when W. J. Youngs, now Governor Roosevelt's secretary, was District-Attorney for Queens.

During W. J. Youngs's regime, with Davidson as his assistant, "Bill" Baker was Sheriff of the County. Baker succeeded Sheriff Deht, and at once proceeded to enlarge that branch of the sheriff's business which he found already in operation, and to which he soon learned he would have to look for the principal emoluments of his position.

Under the law all tramps who were brought before local justices and found guilty had to be sent to the penitentiary. To evade the provisions of the law it was necessary to have all tramps arrested, arrested, and then sent to the penitentiary. The sheriff received $3 a week for their board.

As a consequence, tramps disappeared from the map of Queens, while vagrants began to swarm like bees about sugar loaf. In a single year this procedure, it is estimated, cost the town of Hempstead alone as much as $50,000.

It got so, it is alleged, that while not a tramp was to be found the vagrant business flourished, and it is said, the Sheriff waxed rich.

Finally, a lawyer of the county, John Lyon, came before the Grand Jury with witnesses to prove what was going on, and asked that the officers responsible be indicted. Then District-Attorney Youngs, now the Governor's secretary, came to the rescue of the accused men and advised the jury not to indict.

At last a bill was introduced into the Legislature providing that vagrants receive the same punishment as tramps. This bill became a law.

District-Attorney Youngs once was asked why he permitted the game. He replied, according to prominent citizens of Queens who recall his words today:

"How can I stop it now, when you know Baker is always complaining he hasn't made his election expenses yet?"

TROOPS IN FLORAL SHOWER.
San Francisco Welcomes Returning Soldiers—They Saw a Hard Campaign.

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—The United States transport Sheridan was docked at dawn today and the thirtieth Minnesota and the Second Dakota Volunteers were landed. The people pelted the soldiers with flowers.

The men will be mustered out in a few weeks. Their health is good, but all show they have passed through a hard campaign.

A Grocer's Experience....
WITH GRAPE-NUTS SEE A LAW.

A Grocer's Interest Is to Furnish Pure Food.

People do not always realize the personal interest that a first-class grocer takes in the articles of food which he furnishes customers.

Some people believe that the grocer is influenced only by the profit he may derive, and that his recommendations are governed entirely by a mercenary motive, but this is not always true.

On the contrary, it is believed that a majority of the better class of grocers are thoroughly honest in their desire to furnish their patrons with really pure and nourishing food.

The following from Jno. Wallgren, a prominent grocer of Portland, Oregon, may be of interest: "I am on my tenth case of Grape-Nuts and my trade is still increasing. I have been bothered with a weak stomach for five years. I have tried a number of remedies and patent medicines without help. I am eating Grape-Nuts three times a day and after using three packages I must admit that I am relieved of my weak stomach and feel like a new man."

There is a reason for this. A weak stomach can take Grape-Nuts and digest them without difficulty, for Grape-Nuts are actually pre-digested and ready for immediate transformation into rich blood and good strong tissue, both of muscle and brain. They are generally admitted to be the most scientifically made food in the world, in which the starch of the cereals is transformed into grape sugar, and this is done without the use of any sort of drug or acid whatsoever. On the contrary, all of the processes are purely mechanical, using simply moisture and heat, but the work of the human system is copied almost exactly, with the result that the food is ready for immediate assimilation.

The flavor is exquisite and delicate, the sweet of grape sugar can be detected. The food is absolutely free from cane or beet sugar, but the fine, almost microscopic, particles of grape sugar can be seen glistening on the surface of the small granules. Grape-Nuts with cream furnishes the most delicious breakfast food in existence and this food is in use now by practically all of the well-to-do families in America. The demand has been so great that the factory has been running steadily both night and day for upwards of a year, and the fame of this American breakfast dish has spread to many of the other countries of the world.

GLEASON DEFIES A MAZET SUBPOENA.

Says He Is in the Queens County Jail and Can't Come.

AFRAID OF BEING SHOT.

His Lawyer Advises Him to Refuse to Obey Moss's Summons.

"I can't go to New York to see the Mazet Committee," said former Mayor Gleason, of Long Island City, yesterday, when an emissary from the office of Lawyer Frank Moss served upon him a subpoena requiring him to attend at the next session.

"I'm in jail. If I'm seen going beyond the jail limits I may be shot by one of the keepers, and then what would become of things?"

Mr. Gleason is a prisoner, technically. As he will not pay a judgment against him he is in the Queens County Jail. Seeing the commitment coming he ran a law through the Legislature extending the limits of the jail yard so that they are co-extensive with the county lines. He does not go to the institution for his meals, though he is carried on the books. Every evening at 6 o'clock, which is roll call time, in whatever part of the county he may happen to be, he yells out "Here!" and it is not his fault if the warden doesn't know it.

He says he will not obey the Mazet subpoena unless it is accompanied by a writ of habeas corpus that will let him out of the Queens County Jail.

"I don't want any bullets fired after me," he announces; "I've seen all the trouble I want to see, and now I'm trying to live a decent life."

The former Mayor has a commutation contract with a lawyer by which the latter undertakes to attend to any number of suits over Mr. Gleason's head, but not to exceed three hundred in any one year. That gentleman advised him to pay no attention to Mr. Moss's subpoena.

The warden of the jail says that if Mr. Moss wants Mr. Gleason he must send over a writ and a prison van in which to transport him.

SALE OF Housefurnishing Goods, Crockery and Glassware,

Beginning Monday.

The immense variety of useful and necessary adjuncts, that appeal to the money saving instincts of the thrifty housewife, which have been gathered together for this occasion, has never been surpassed in New York City merchandising.

These prices are exceptional. Values have been rising, but we took advantage of the market when values were lower, and so are in a position to offer standard goods as extraordinary bargains.

For this sale, we have secured a special lot of a large and complete line of "manufacturer's" imperfections. The marks in some cases being only slight roughness in the enameling, in others the effects being apparent only to an expert.

MORGAN OUT FOR ROOSEVELT'S JOB.

State Comptroller, His Friends Say, Will Seek a Nomination.

IS LOADING HIS GUNS.

Governor's Canal Whitewash Will Be Shown Up in a Report.

ALBANY, Sept. 9.—State Comptroller William J. Morgan is conducting a quiet but exceedingly active and dangerous campaign to defeat Governor Roosevelt for re-nomination.

Colonel Morgan is a candidate himself for Executive honors, so his friends say, and every notable official act of the Comptroller goes to prove his friends' assertion.

Colonel Morgan laughs when asked about it, and says nothing.

While Governor Roosevelt swings around at county fairs and declares that the canal scandals are "infamous lies and slanders," Colonel Morgan is at work. He does not talk. He has placed in the State records his decision refusing to pay certain contractors about $143,000, on the ground of fraud.

The former canal and engineering officers, whom Governor Roosevelt and his counsel acquired, the Comptroller has said were parties to the transactions. While the Governor was thundering away at Hornellsville and Watertown the Comptroller was preparing a decision making the Governor's declarations appear false and ridiculous.

The Comptroller will soon make public his decision that John Dunfee & Co., of Syracuse, shall not be paid many thousands of dollars which they claim on canal contracts executed under the direction of former State Engineer Adams and former State Superintendent of Public Works Adirondack.

Not alone in canal matters has Colonel Morgan pirated the Governor's path. Colonel Morgan and the State Board of Charities are exposing dunes in State institutions.

Senator Platt gave orders that the investigation about it stopped. The announcement followed that Governor Roosevelt would take the matter in his own hands.

Regardless of stop orders, the Comptroller has gone steadily ahead, and his investigations have produced results.
